V. a. Übersetzungen/Linguistik, sowie einige Spezialgebiete: IT/Komik/Kunst,...

Mostly translation/linguistics, as well as some special fields: IT/Comedy/Art,...

We are a group of people with various skills who share an internet account for either agency purposes or else joint web-hosting and marketing purposes, thus joining efforts and synergizing shared costs, a community of interests, but each with their own company and their own billing.

The main industry here is translation and other language services, some with a translators' or other linguistic diploma on university or similar higher level, others without such, but with good language skills or even a language diploma and a qualification in another profession doing translations only in their special field, such as university-level engineering or automotive.

Some people have a legal education and good language skills and offer legal services.

Below, you will find links to several individuals who each offer their own services or products.

This site is kept short and simple for functional reasons, but may be improved later.

The links may lead to more sophisticated sites though, depending on each company or individual and their time. As this site is a start-up project, participants will be joined continually, the network is being built up, some data of existing contacts got lost and must be re-activated.
